retary of State's Window.

THE COURT'S RULINGS KNOCK OUT IMPORTANT EVI-DENCE OF DEFENSE.

THE FRIDAY SESSION.

The rainstorm of the morning this morning did not prevent the court room. There were only half a dozen ladies present when court opened and not more than a score of men.

Mr. Frank C. Carpenter, of Louisville, was still on the stand and was cross-examined by Mr. Mitchell. Mr.
Carpenter described again the meeting of the Insurance Committee in the corner of the Senate Chamber.

"Was that committee in formal session?"

"Yes sir; and Mr. Robinson was speaking."

"Did I understand you to say that Senator Coleman, the Chairman of the Committee, was reading a newspaper while the argument was going on?"

"Yes, he was reading a newspaper."

Mr. Mitchell rigidly interrogated the witness about the position of the gentlemen in the Senate chamber and he happened to remember the exact positions. The witness said that the matter was impressed upon his mind and that he remembered the situation perfectly. He was certain that Senator Johnson did not move to the southeast window after the first shot was fired; he might have gone there after the second shot was fired.

"It was fifteen minutes after the shot was fired before I left the street railroad is out and turned toward the Capital Hotel. At that time no soldiers were in sight on that street."

"What reason did you have for relating what you saw to me?" asked Mr. Kinkead on redirect examination.

"Well, I saw in the newspaper that Hiland Whittaker claimed to have been in the Senate chamber."

"We object to the introduction of newspapers."

"The witness has repeatedly violated the rules," said Judge Cantrell, with considerable irritation, "and if he offends again the court will impose a fine."

This ended Mr. Carpenter's testimony.

SAM H. STONE.

The next witness called was Col
Sam H. Stone, ex Auditor of Public Accounts, who testified that W. H.
Culton had been a clerk in his office up to December 31 last, at which time he discharged him.

"Why did you discharge him?"

"Because he stole $1,000 from me."

The prosecution made objection to this question and answer and the court announced that it would reserve its decision until it looked up the matter.

"Did you have to make the sum good?"

Objection and objection sustained.
Upon cross examination Capt
Stone said that he had not discharged Culton before because he had just completed at that time the examination which convinced him that Culton was guilty.

GEORGE L. DANFORTH.

Mr. George L. Danforth, the insurance man of Louisville, was next called and made an excellent witness.

"I was in the meeting of the Insurance Committee in the Senate chamber."

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourage and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become a prevalent evil that is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child understands too often, if the urine scalds the flesh or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as many people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy.
The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one-dollar bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling all about it, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received advice I telegraphed somewhere along the route for R. Forsythe, of Bowling Green, Md. Mentz, of Glasgow Junction and J. F. Taylor, of Glasgow, to meet us at Louisville."

"Were Wharton Golden and John Powers on the train?"

"I do not know either of these men, and could not say."

"Where were you when you heard that Senator Goebel had been shot?"

"I don't know exactly where we were, somewhere along the route. I was in the rear car with Mr. Long, and as soon as I heard it, after a few words with Mr. Long, I went forward, where Mrs. Powers and Mr. Day were."

"What did Powers say about it?"

"He said it was a d-d shame."

Here the objection of the prosecution stopped the answer. The point was argued by Col Campbell for the Commonwealth, and by Judge Sims for the defense. Col Campbell said that it was after the commission of the crime, and, therefore, incompetent.
Judge Sims argued that the sayings and doings of the defendant had already been held competent after the crime.

The court, however, sustained the objection.

"What did you do when you got to Louisville?"

"Powers, Day, Long and myself met in room 10, Willard Hotel, and discussed matters. We determined that conference to abandon at once the plan for getting a crowd of men from Western Kentucky to petition the Legislature."

"Why?"

Object to and objection sustained.
The witness was here turned over to the prosecution, and court adjourned for dinner.

THE AFTERNOON SESSION.

When court opened in the afternoon it was evident that the attorneys for the prosecution were not in very high spirits. The weather was warm, and the lawyers, jury, witnesses and newspaper men almost sweltered.

J. Lon Butler, of Butler county, was on the stand for cross-examination.
Campbell proceeded to try his old methods of twisting evidence to suit his own ends, putting words into the witness' mouth which he had not used and loading his questions down with double meanings and subtle innuendoes. There tactics kept the other side busy objecting, and, when overruled, excepting.

Campbell wanted to know if Butler had sent a number of telegrams to parties in Southern Kentucky from the Willard Hotel on January 7, 8 and 13, telling them to go to Frankfort.
The witness said he could not remember whether he had sent telegrams to the various men named by Campbell. He explained that he had been wiring to Butler and other counties for witnesses in the contest.

Once Judge Sims interrupted the inquiry to protest vigorously against the ruling of the court in allowing the Commonwealth to ask about the contents of various telegrams, when the telegrams, being the best possible evidence, should have been produced.
Then Campbell put this question:
"Did you meet John Henry Wilson in front of the Buckingham Theater in Louisville one day in January and tell him that Taylor had been elected and should hold his office, no matter what the cost might be?"

"I did not, was the positive reply."

The letter part of the cross-examination was given over to a review of the trip to Louisville on January 30.
No new facts were developed.

W. C. CARTER.

At 2 o'clock the defense called W.

C. Carter, of Grayson county, one of the men who came here to testify against Weaver, the king of the strollers. Mr. Carter's testimony follows.

"Do you belong to a lodge of Woodmen of the World at Grayson Springs?" asked Mr. Kinkead.

"Yes, sir."

"When was the permanent organization of the lodge accomplished?"

"January 30, of this year."

"Where?"

"At Grayson Springs."

"Who officiated at the installation of the officers?"

"George F. Weaver."

"I saw him to-day."

"Where?"

"In jail here to-day."

"What official position do you hold in that lodge?"

"I am Clerk of the Camp."

"Were you present at the installation?"

"Yes, sir, I was installed then."

"By whom?"

"George F. Weaver."

"When was this?"

"About noon on January 30."

"Did you meet anybody?"

"Yes, Mr. Phelps."

"How far is it from Frankfort to Grayson Springs?"

"About 135 miles."

"How long have you known George F. Weaver?"

"Since December, of last year, when he came to get up a camp in our town."

To make the undoing of the attrolling barber more complete, Mr. Carter produced cards of application for membership in the Woodmen of the World signed Weaver and read the minutes of the meeting held on the night of January 30.

"Had you seen Weaver prior to 12 o'clock on January 30?"

"Not that I remember of."

"How long did Weaver remain in Grayson Springs after January 30?"

"Until some time in March."

"When you went into the jail this afternoon did Mr. Weaver recognize you?"

"Yes, sir, and he shook hands."

"Take the witness," said Mr. Kinkead.

Only a few perfunctory questions were asked on cross examination.

W. A. PHELPS.

W. A. Phelps, another citizen of Grayson Springs, was called next.
He confirmed the testimony of the preceding witness. Phelps said:

"I saw George Weaver in jail here to-day. I know him well. He came to our town last December. On January 30 I met Weaver with Mr. Carter
at Grayson Springs."

At this juncture the defense asked that Weaver be brought in in order to complete the identification. He came a moment later, trailing along behind a Deputy Sheriff. All his old jauntyness was gone. He took a seat in front of Phelps, who recognized him, and then he was taken from the room again.

Phelps was not cross examined. A gloomier set than the lawyers for the prosecution could not have been found when he left the stand. Even Mr.
Franklin's customary smile was replaced by a frown.

ADJ. GEN. COLLIER.

The next witness was Adj. Gen.
Dan Collier. He identified the telegrams worded 'all right' sent by him to the commanders of the First and Second Regiments on January 30.

"I used the words 'all right,' he said, in accordance with a cipher code previously arranged to be employed in case trouble should break out any time."

"After the shooting I was delayed, and it was fully fifteen minutes before the first telegrams left my office. C.
E. Nason carried them. I sent no messages at all by Ben Rowe."

"The troops reached the State House about thirty minutes after the shooting. Certainly the time was not less than that."

"I sent a message on foot to the arsenal for the company there about five or ten minutes after the shooting, and am perfectly confident it was not less than thirty minutes until they got there.
I got them as quick as I could, but I know that at the time I thought it was fully thirty minutes. I did not send any order for the troops until after they took Mr. Goebel's body out of the yard. I sent a message to Capt.
Walcutt, at the arsenal, by Perkins, my porter. There was considerable excitement on the Capitol grounds, and feeling was running high at the
time."

"Was that the first order given to the troops in the arsenal to turn out?"

"Yes, that was the first order."

"Did you hear any threats from the crowd on the Capitol grounds?"

This was objected to. The objection was sustained.

"Immediately after the shooting I saw four or five plain guards in their uniforms around the door of the Executive building. They seemed to be acting in concert with old man Miles."

"Very soon after the shooting I got an order from Gov. Taylor telling me to confer with the civil authorities regarding the preservation of order."

At this juncture the order was produced, but the prosecution objected to its introduction. An argument followed, the jury being excluded.

After reading the order Judge Cantrill ruled that the order was not warranted in compliance with the statute of the State, and he therefore excluded
it. "I can not submit it to the jury," said his Honor, "without explaining to them that it is in conflict with the law; that it is illegal, and that the Governor had no right to act as he did."

The Judge's chief objection to the order was that after directing Collier to form a police system with the military force it ordered him to confer with the Sheriff and County Judge of Franklin county and the Mayor of Frankfort, "and to act in harmony with them, so far as is in your judgment compatible with the preservation of the public peace."

The jury was then returned, and
Gen. Collier's letter to the civil authorities of Franklin county was offered, asking their cooperation in maintaining peace. The Commonwealth objected to its introduction and was sustained.

The witness was then asked if Gov.
Taylor directed him to put himself in touch with the civil authorities upon the arrival of the military forces.

Judge Cantrell ruled that the question would be incompetent, unless, as he said, "in compliance with the statute, Gov. Taylor had directed Collier to report to the civil authorities."

The defense excepted and made an avowal, repeating the act a moment later, when the Judge overruled a somewhat similar question.

Collier was finally permitted to say that he held a conference, at his own request, with the Mayor and Sheriff.
Gen. Collier was still on the stand when court adjourned at 4 p. m. He will be cross-examined to-morrow.

The Gobel-Campbell-Franklin Cantrell-Scott-Bockham-Blackburn-Trimbles contingent find it now showing its purpose. Mr. Weaver a star witness, who swore he saw the gun from which the shot came that killed Gobel, pointing out of the widow of the office of the Secretary of State, has been proven to have been at Grayson Springs, Grayson county, on the day of the killing. Yet no longer than last week the editor of the Hartford Herald commented on this evidence as damaging to Powers. Nothing comes as a surprise from the editor of this depraved and debauched journal. Another witness, the witness of all, has a contract, written and signed, with Tom Campbell for $5,000.

To watch the change of front of the Hartford Herald is quite amusing to most of its readers, even good Democrats. Its columns are filled with varied assortments of material. Last week it attempting to poison the public mind against Caleb Powers and his unfortunate companions, as well as the whole Republican party, the Herald produced the following editorial:

George F. Weyer, of Denver, Colo., testified at Georgetown last Friday that he saw the gun-firm protruding from the Secretary of State's office when he came there Sunday. He showed no other signs than those which were common to all men who had been through the window.

He said that "Taylor, the cowardly 'punp' shot him in the back. This story is radically different from those which I read in Frankfurt and Georgetown. This idea of his being shot in the back is a very plausible one indeed, but he is certainly mistaken in the man who fired the shot, who was immediately behind Goebel, at the time of the shooting? Look out Mr. Wheeler, you might give the whole thing away. It is generally believed that the shot was fired from the rear and such evidence as this is truly convincing. Geulemen of the oppression, bring on your wheels! We will welcome all such in our midst. Their work will be a boon to the Republicans and Independent

Mr. Dock Sanderfur, living near Beaver Dam, met with a very unfortunate and perhaps serious accident last Sunday while enroute to Beaver Dam. He was thrown from a buggy and his shoulder was dislocated and the bones badly crushed. His left hip was seriously injured. His advanced age will make his case a very doubtful one. It will leave him a cripple for the remainder of his life.

The ladies of Beaver Dam have entered upon a course which they cannot afford to abandon. They have just cause for complaint and the whole country will honor them in the attempt to preserve their homes. A petition has been presented to Messrs. Taylor and Tatum, asking them to abandon their illicit sale of whisky and they should heed its mandates. Their business has been successfully carried on this far, but those ladies have said stop in thundering tones. The whole community are with the noble women and they have but to persevere and their purpose is accomplished.

Mr. James Eapey met with a very painful experience in his place of business last Friday night at McHenry. It is reported that Eapey has been engaged in the liquor traffic at that place for some time and Friday night about 10 o'clock, after his work for the day had been concluded, he layed down to rest before retiring for the night, and some one, supposed to be one of his customers, fell upon him, with murder and robbery in his heart, in the secret of night and cruelly beat him, breaking his jaws and bruising his head seriously; then a razor was called into service and his throat was cut, after being thus disabled his conquer took for his reward all the money he could get, which was about $40.00. Dee Hocker, a colored man, has been arrested and lodged in jail, as a suspect, at present there is no clue as to the guilty one.

RESOLUTIONS

Adopted by the Yerkes Liberty Club at Centertown Saturday Night.

Centertown, Ky., Aug. 4, 1900. We the committee on resolutions beg leave to submit the following:

Resolved, 1st. That this club be known as the Yerkes Liberty Club of Centertown, Ky.

2nd. That the doors of this organization be opened to all liberty loving voters of this voting precinct.

3d. That we accept all good citizens who may wish to become honorary members, though they may not be voters.

4th. That we heartily commend the voters of this precinct for true courage in that they registered a majority of fifty against the enemies of a free hall and a fair count, Nov. 7, 1899.

5th. That we commend the noble stand taken by Representative Jarnagin and Senator Howard for civil liberty.

6th. That we indorse the able administration of Gov. W. S. Taylor and deplore the fact that political greed on the part of his opponents have so shamefully and illegally deprived him of his office.

7th. That we indorse the wise and political administration of President McKinley.

8th. That we commend the action of the Republicans of Fourth Congressional District in their nomination of Mr. Jolly for Congress.

9th. That we indorse the action of the Republican State Convention in the selection of the Hon. John W. Yerkes as their standard-bearer of Civil Liberty in Kentucky.

10th. That we heartily indorse the Republican State and National platforms.

11th. That we deplore the political condition of our State and believe that such has originated from such vicious and unfair legislation as the Goebel election law, and we urge all people to lay aside prejudice and battle for liberty and restore again to the State the rights of a free hall and a fair count.

12th. That we denounce an absolutely false statement in the Democratic State Platform, "We have always been for a fair election," from the fact that in a similar condition of 1899 they indorsed the Goebel election law.

13th. That we denounce the unfair and unjust means which the agents of the Commonwealth are using in the trial of Cule Powers at Georgetown, believing that they persecute Mr. Powers for the sole reason that he has been a Republican leader and that they may secure a part of the $100,000 corruption fund. Furthermore, we denounce the unfair ruling of Judge Cantrell.

14th. That we advocate the repeal of the Goebel election law at the earliest possible moment and desire in its stead a law that is fair and non-partisan.

MINUTES OF OHIO COUNTY TEACHER'S INSTITUTE.

THURSDAY MORNING.

The ringing of the court house bell called the teachers together for the beginning of another day's pleasant work.

Devotional Exercises were conducted by Rev. Boyce Taylor.

Music furnished by the Institute.

Immediately after roll call, the visiting teachers were given an opportunity to address the teachers. Prof. Foster responded with a few words of greeting. This was followed by Prof. Gardner with a short talk in the interest of Bowling Business College.

Newspaper men were then given an opportunity to display their work after which the remainder of the period was spent by the instructor in the discussion of psychology. Recess.

After music by the Institute and roll call, the subject of Grammar was introduced. Prof. Welborn discussed the Inductive and Deductive Methods of teaching grammar. He prefers the Inductive Methods and suggests the use of object lessons.

Mr. Hoehmeier thinks the "End to be Attained" is the correct use of the sentence.

Next the floor was occupied by Mr. C. Igleheart in the discussion of "Grammar as a Mind Trainer."

Slangy Expressions were discussed by Messrs. Patton, Wedding and Woodward. Love of good Literature, Miss Eulah Coats. Recess.
